

The advice you'd give to others that this connection taught you.

What has changed for the better about this connection? For the worse?

What are the first three feelings that come up when you think of this?

How would you have approached this connection differently
with the knowledge
you have now?

